RUSSELLVILLE, AL—

The case involving the alleged sexual misconduct of a Russellville Police officer is headed to the grand jury. Police Sergeant Jeremy Shane Hall is charged with three counts of custodial sexual abuse.

A complaint from a female inmate, claiming Hall touched her inappropriately led to a review by the Alabama Bureau of Investigation. In total, the complaints of three female inmates were included in the criminal charges. In one case, he's accused of having sexual intercourse with one of the female inmates.
