(Columbia-AP) November 21, 2006 - A 35-year-old officer with the Florence Police Department was arrested Tuesday.

Officials say pictures of children engaged in sexual activity were found on his home computer.

The office of state Attorney General Henry McMaster says Eric Wayne Stone is charged with the second-degree sexual exploitation of a minor and third-degree sexual exploitation of a minor.

Both offenses are felonies. Each is punishable by up to 10 years in prison.

According to the arrest warrants, the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children received a tip from the Internet service provider Yahoo that someone had uploaded images containing child pornography to a photos folder on a Yahoo server. An investigation led officers to Stone.

The State Law Enforcement Division, the Florence County Sheriff's Office and the US Secret Service executed a search warrant at Stone's home.

A bond hearing is expected to be held Wednesday at the Florence County Detention Center.
