BATON ROUGE, LA (WAFB) - A lieutenant with the Louisiana State University Police Department has been charged with possession of child pornography, U.S. Attorney David Dugas announced Wednesday.

Thomas Eugene Fife was charged with possessing child pornography. The charge resulted from an investigation conducted by the FBI and LSU police, Dugas said.

The 62-year-old Fife resigned from the force earlier this year after being arrested when images of child pornography were allegedly found on his LSU computer, said LSU Police Chief Gary Durham.

Fife had been with the force for about 20 years, Durham said.

If convicted, Fife faces a maximum sentence of ten years in prison, a fine of $250,000, or both.
