ALBANY, GA --

Bond has been granted for a former Albany Police Department officer accused of child molestation.

Vincent Wadley's bail has been set for $7,500 says Dougherty County District Attorney Greg Edwards.

This comes on the heels of a similar case decided by the Supreme Court of Georgia.

Local officials say the state case addressed issues relating to Vincent Wadley's trial and out of fairness a Superior Court judge decided to grant him bail.

Wadley's case is currently in the court of appeals, but Dougherty County's district attorney says the state is ready for a trial.

"We believe the evidence will be the same in terms of whatever ruling the court of appeals have in this particular case. So the state is prepared to go forward with the trial," said Dougherty County District Attorney Greg Edwards

Tribute to survivors of child sexual assault by law enforcement officers.

Something you won't hear cops admit, but more police officers are convicted of child sex crimes than all other professions combined. It's law enforcement's "dirty little secret", and one we are committed to exposing. Police officers use their positions of trust to violate our children. Their victims are threatened with physical harm and told no one will believe their word over that of a police officer. Please visit our Facebook pages to learn more about this insidious epidemic that is plaguing every police department in the entire country.
