The Georgia Bureau of Investigation says the Berrien County Sheriff's office received a complaint and turned the matter over to the GBI to investigate.

Watson was not on duty at the time of his arrest.

Officials with the Nashville police department and Sheriff's office declined to comment on this case, saying it is an on-going investigation.

We will continue tracking this story and will bring you details as they become available.

Well a taste of his own medicine. These cops have been setting up people in nashville for years and then accusing them of "soliciting" prostitution and posting pics online. Now we know the truth, this is all a cover up for the cops own misdeeds! Fire Chief Serpas!

GV, it was a male minor that he solicited, and not the first male he has been with. His wife even suspected him of being that way already. His poor wife, I can't stop laughing!!

This guy would do well in the Wakilla Sheriff's office. He could be another role model like the Sheriff.
