OKLAHOMA CITY -- The Oklahoma City police officer accused of molesting his adopted son is expected to resign from the department on Tuesday, according to his attorney.

Sgt. Maurice Martinez, is charged with 37 counts, including the alleged sexual abuse of his adopted son and other foster children.

Martinez is also charged with possession of child pornography, threatening a witness, harboring a runaway child, and conspiracy.

Martinez was first arrested in January when his adopted 16-year-old son accused him of sexual abuse. He currently on administrative leave with pay from the Oklahoma City Police Department.

Like it or not you are innocent until proven guilty and that is why they cant take your retirement until you are convicted. I believe he is guilty and as so is a worthless excuse for a human being and should never have worn a badge. But his day in court will come, the sooner the better. I sure my comments will be erased and only the argumentative opinions will remain but so be it. The "status quo" comments are about as ignorant as the author but even he has a right to express his opinion in our fine country.

This just goes to show you how dangerous the status quo is. We give our hard-earn tax dollars to a system that is corrupt, and they expect us to act like sheep and cower down before them. They don't protect us, not really. It's all about the money, control and status quo. The justice system and law enforcement can no longer be trusted and its time that the people take action. Nicolai Machiavelli, the famous tactician that lived in the 1600's who wrote the book "The Art of War" [not to be confused with Sun Tzu's "Art of War"] said that the status quo should not be saved, but overthrown. Charles Clark, Kiktode. Author: Lynchings in Oklahoma.
