A judge says the former police chief of Spavinaw can remain free on bond.

Prosecutors were in court Thursday trying to revoke Clarence Gregory, Sr.'s bond and send him back behind bars.

Gregory was arrested in July and charged with two counts of molestation.

Spavinaw Police Chief Clarence William Gregory, Sr. Last month, prosecutors filed a complaint that Gregory was seen following the school bus of the alleged victims and parking outside their school.

Gregory is due back in court in November.
