PRYOR, Okla. - The Spavinaw police chief charged with molestation made his first appearance in court Thursday.

Clarence Gregory Sr. was present for his preliminary hearing in the Mayes County Courthouse, but it was rescheduled for mid-September.

Gregory is charged with two counts of lewd molestation. He's accused of inappropriately touching two girls over a period of several years.

The alleged victims are younger than 16 but their relationship to Gregory is unknown.

Gregory is currently out of jail on bond.

The town of Spavinaw, meanwhile, has appointed an interim police chief .
