FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (WSVN) -- A South Florida officer has been arrested after he was found possessing child pornography on his home computer.

Fort Lauderdale Police arrested Jorge E. Vasquez after, they said, he traded child pornography online.

Officials were able to track the information down to an apartment complex along Northeast Seventh Avenue and 14th Place, from Vasquez's internet IP address.

Vasquez now faces 10 counts of possession of child pornography, one count use of computer to compile child pornography and another of possession with intent to promote.
