A veteran corrections officer with the Williams County Sheriff's Department is accused of child sex crimes and has been fired.

49-year-old Sgt. Steven Brooks faces two felonies for allegedly downloading child pornography and surreptitiously video recording an underage girl.

He is being held at the Ward County Jail on $250,000 bond.

Court records indicate three Williston-based judges have disqualified themselves from the case and the Supreme Court has assigned Southwest District Judge Dan Greenwood of Dickinson to handle the case.

The preliminary hearing and arraignment for Brooks has been scheduled for July 9th.

The Class-C Felony counts carry a maximum sentence of five years in prison.

Williams County Sheriff Scott Busching says Brooks "did a good job" during his nine years with the department but has been fired.
