GRANGEVILLE, ID — A former Idaho County Sheriff's deputy has been accused of underage sex charges.

The charges against Nick Harris are lewd conduct with a minor child under 16 years of age, and sexual abuse of a minor under 16 years of age.

On May 13, Idaho County Sheriff's officials say Nick Harris was placed on administrative leave while charges were being investigated. The sheriff's office turned the case over to the Idaho State Police.

Harris is currently in jail in Siskiyou County California. He's been there since May 13 when he was put on administrative leave.

Idaho County Sheriff Doug Gidding issued a statement on the day Harris was fired.

He said, "When officers who are sworn to protect and serve are accused of a crime, it has a significant impact on all of us. The Idaho County Sheriff's Office is committed to protecting every resident of this great county."

Sheriff Giddings didn't offer further comment on the case as there is pending legal action.

Bond is set at $100,000. Harris was in court in California Monday for an extradition hearing to Idaho.
