Indy Hopes To Curb Super Bowl Prostitution

Human Trafficking Prevalent Around Big Game

POSTED: 11:16 am EDT September 30, 2011
UPDATED: 1:02 am EDT October 1, 2011

INDIANAPOLIS -- While a lot of cash and crowds are sure to come to Indianapolis for the Super Bowl, state and city officials said Friday they are cognizant of the dark side the big game brings -- prostitution and human trafficking.

Attorney General Greg Zoeller, representatives from the Marion County Prosecutor's Office, social service agencies and police met Friday for an all-day forum to discuss the issue.

Authorities are concerned about a likely increase in prostitution stemming from the Super Bowl and are grappling with ways to address it.

Zoeller said it would help if the demand for illicit services could be curbed.

"Men must take the lead in not creating a demand in the illegal activity," he said. "We have to make it clear that it's not socially acceptable."

Often, prostitutes who are in the Super Bowl city are victims of human trafficking, having been brought in to fulfill a perceived uptick in demand. Because they are often in the country illegally, victims of human trafficking are less likely to seek help.

"When you look at human trafficking, you really have to look at the young girls who have been brought to the United States, many of them against their will, or they've been told a different story about why they're being brought for some type of work," Zoeller said. "Working to identify and rescue victims is a challenge, because they're not going to come forward on their own."

Zoeller said Indiana has work to do in the Legislature to address human trafficking.

"We don't have a statute specifically focused on those who traffic ... in both sex and labor," Zoeller said. "We have a very short window to make it over the legislative deadlines (before the Super Bowl)."

Does it matter?

Better find a way to shut down Craigslist. They are not suppose to post on there, but they will find a way.

 It's like the All-star game, we will bring in the champ hookers from Vegas and Jersey and wherever else they pride themselves on selling/renting "quality" meat. It may, however put some of the rinky dink toothless crack gals out of business. Then unemployment will rise again. We gotta think about keeping main street alive.

We all pay for it Sinner, ole pal, it's just a matter of how much & how long you have to pay. I just celebrated 13 yrs of marriage earlier this week, so you know I've been paying for at least 13 years now.

If she's good looking then just keep right on driving, she'll be a cop every time. Always look for missing teeth and torn up shoes also, if she hasn't got either you're going to be busted.

At least that's what I've always heard of course...

An Army guy once told me that he didn't even realize Indy streetwalkers were prostitutes. He said they looked more like homeless women, and that the proper 'ho uniform is not jeans and a flannel shirt like it is in Indy, and around Ft Campbell KY, at least they wear makeup! I loled and loled...maybe we can get dressier 'hos for the Superbowl so Indy can hold it's head high.
